Pastor James Currie, Pastor of Faith Baptist Church in Cheboygan, offered the following invocation:

“Our Heavenly Father,

Today we stand together to thank You for this great country that we live in. As we have honored those yesterday on Memorial Day, those who have died to protect and defend the freedoms that we all enjoy, we also thank You for those who are serving our country today in the service of our country. We pray for protection for them as they carry out their responsibilities. We also pray for their families and the sacrifices that are being made on our behalf. We ask for Your blessing on them and bring them home safely.

Lord we also pray for those who lead our country. For those who serve us and You in living noble and peaceful lives. I pray that they will protect the innocent and bring relief to the hurting. I pray that justice will be done and that the good of all men will be carried out through those who have been placed in office.

Lord we thank You for those who represent us in this assembly. I pray that You will grant them wisdom as they tackle the difficult issues that face our great state of Michigan. You tell us in Your Holy Scriptures that is we lack wisdom, we are to ask God and we are doing that.

Lord, I pray for the families in our state. I pray for those who are struggling with employment and those who are struggling to make ends meet. God we need Your help – for the good of all the people of the great state of Michigan.

God we ask You to grant our requests.

I pray in the name of Jesus Christ, my Savior and Lord. Amen.”

Motions and Resolutions

Reps. Brunner, Barnett, Constan, Darany, Durhal, Liss, Segal and Slavens offered the following resolution:

House Resolution No. 96.

A resolution to memorialize Congress to modernize the Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA).

Whereas, Billions of pounds of chemicals are manufactured or imported in the United States each day for use in industrial processes or in the manufacture of commercial products. Many of these useful substances can be hazardous to human health or the environment in certain instances. American consumers deserve to have confidence that the products they buy are safe when used as intended; and

Whereas, A federal chemical management program should make protecting the public health, including children’s health, its highest priority. Strict government oversight through a chemical management program should also strive to preserve America’s role as the world’s leading innovator and employer in the manufacture, use, and commercial distribution of chemicals; and

Whereas, Congress enacted the Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA) in 1976 to regulate chemicals with the intention of preventing new and mitigating existing public health and environmental hazards. Since that law was enacted 35 years ago, scientific understanding of the public health and environmental impact of chemicals has advanced significantly. These advances in scientific knowledge need to be incorporated into the nation’s chemical management program; and

Whereas, Momentum is growing for Congress to act to modernize TSCA. A robust federal chemical management system will obviate the need for state governments to adopt different, and at times conflicting, state regulatory programs that have the potential for negative impacts on the national economy. Federal action should strengthen TSCA to:

- (a) Ensure that chemicals are safe for their intended use;
- (b) Require the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to systematically prioritize chemicals for the purpose of assessing their safe use;
- (c) Require that EPA act expeditiously and efficiently in assessing the safe use of chemicals;
- (d) Require that all involved in the manufacture, import, processing, distribution, or use of chemicals be encouraged to provide EPA with relevant information to the extent necessary to make safety determinations;
- (e) Assure that potential risks to children from exposures to chemicals are considered in the assessment of safe use;
- (f) Empower EPA to impose a range of risk management controls to ensure that chemicals are safe for their intended use;

(g) Encourage companies and EPA to work together to enhance public access to chemical health and safety information;
 (h) Require that EPA rely on scientifically valid data and information, regardless of its source, including data and information reflecting modern advances in science and technology;

(i) Enable EPA to have the staff, resources, and regulatory tools it needs to ensure the safety of chemicals; and

(j) Ensure that TSCA remains a vehicle to promote and encourage technological innovation, and the maintenance of a globally competitive industry in the United States; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That we memorialize Congress to modernize the Toxic Substances Control Act; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, and the members of the Michigan congressional delegation.

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Regulatory Reform.

Reps. Barnett, Liss, Yonker, Santana, Brown, Bauer, Wayne Schmidt, Gilbert, O'Brien, Segal, Constan, Crawford, Darany, Denby, Durhal, Heise, Lori, Price, Slavens and Tyler offered the following resolution:

House Resolution No. 97.

A resolution to declare October 20, 2011, as Osteoporosis Awareness and Prevention Day in the state of Michigan.

Whereas, Osteoporosis, a disease characterized by low bone mass, structural deterioration of bone, and increased susceptibility to fractures, is a public health threat for an estimated 52 million Americans and more than 1.5 million Michigan residents; and

Whereas, In Michigan, more than 350,00 individuals already have the disease and nearly 1.2 million are estimated to have low bone mass, placing them at increased risk for osteoporosis; and

Whereas, One in two women and up to one in four men over age 50 will have an osteoporosis-related fracture in her or his remaining lifetime; and

Whereas, Building strong bones during childhood and adolescence can be the best defense against developing osteoporosis later; and

Whereas, Osteoporosis is often thought of as an older person's disease, but bone health is a concern for any age; and

Whereas, Substantial risk has been reported in people of all ethnic backgrounds; and

Whereas, Although osteoporosis often has no symptoms in its early stages, a bone mineral density test can be used to assess fracture risk and to establish the diagnosis and severity of the disease in people at risk before they start fracturing their bones; and

Whereas, In 2005, osteoporosis was responsible for an estimated 2 million fractures and $19 billion in costs; and

Whereas, The Surgeon General believes that bone health is critically important to the overall health and quality of the life of Americans; that it is in jeopardy and will only get worse if left unchecked. Great improvements in the bone health status of Americans can be made by applying what is already known about early prevention, assessment, diagnosis, and treatment; and

Whereas, Optimum bone health and prevention of osteoporosis can be maximized by a balanced diet rich in calcium and vitamin D, weight-bearing exercise, and a healthy lifestyle with no smoking or excessive alcohol intake; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That the members of this legislative body declare October 20, 2011, as Osteoporosis Awareness and Prevention Day in the state of Michigan. We support the goals and ideals of Osteoporosis Awareness and Prevention Day and urge the people of Michigan to observe appropriate programs and activities with respect to osteoporosis, including talking with their health care professionals about their bone health.
