Father José Quintana of St. Francis Xavier Church of Grand Rapids offered the following invocation:

We pray for those in public office that our God and Lord may direct their minds and hearts according to God's will for the true peace and freedom for all. Almighty and everliving God, in whose hands lies every human heart and the rights of all people, look with favor, we pray, on those who govern with authority over us. We pray that through the whole world and the state of Michigan, the prosperity of all people, the assurance of peace, and freedom of religion, that they be made secure.

We ask these things through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Messages from the Governor

The following message from the Governor was received and read:

June 2, 2014

Attached is a copy of my Special Message on Aging to the Regular Session of the 97th Michigan Legislature. This message transmitting information on the affairs of state and recommending measures I consider necessary and desirable is presented to the Michigan Senate pursuant to Section 17 of Article V of the Michigan Constitution of 1963.

Sincerely,
Rick Snyder
Governor

June 2, 2014

The special message is as follows:

The state's older adult population is growing rapidly, just as it is in the rest of the country. There are nearly two million Michigan residents age 60 and older, a 20 percent increase over the past 10 years. By 2030, nearly one in four residents will be age 60 and older.

Michigan's residents are living longer and are enjoying a better quality of life in their later years. The fastest growing segment of Michigan's population is age 85 and older. As of 2010, there are more than 182,000 residents between the ages of 85 and 95, and more than 1,700 centenarians.

Older adults have varying levels of independence as they age. While many are in good health, others have limited mobility. We must continue to improve our aging services and create opportunities for Michigan's older adults to live not only a longer life, but a high quality one. To do so, there are four critically important factors worth considering.

The first is living a healthy lifestyle. Nearly 42 percent of older adults are overweight and nearly 30 percent are obese. Eating right, exercising and maintaining a healthy weight are the keys to aging well.

Remaining active and engaged is also important. Older adults in Michigan are rethinking retirement through volunteerism, education and entrepreneurial pursuits. In fact, nearly 25 percent of older adults volunteered last year. We must retain the talents and skills of older adults at the same time we work to create opportunities for younger generations.

We also can't ignore the importance of financial security. Michigan's families must take steps early to plan for their future. In addition, we all need to regularly reevaluate and adjust our retirement plans as we age.

Finally, maintaining independence and choice is essential to living well. While the state plays a significant role through our aging network, residents and communities must also do their part. Older adults and our local communities should work together to make Michigan more "age-friendly."

The simple truth is that Michigan has work to do to prepare for its growing older adult population. The time is now for all of us to work together to make Michigan a place where our residents live well and age well.

Independence for Older Adults

Age doesn't matter; we all share a common goal of maintaining independence.

Prevention

Maintaining independence starts with maintaining a healthy lifestyle. Each of us can improve our health by eating right and exercising regularly.

Michigan's Health and Wellness 4 x 4 Plan can be used to achieve a healthy lifestyle. This plan centers on practicing healthy behaviors and monitoring key measures closely tied to chronic disease. Michigan is home to hundreds of great senior centers and local recreation facilities that are leading the way with health and wellness classes. I encourage Michigan's older adults to find out what is available in their communities and take part in these activities.

All across the state, communities, employers, health care providers and other organizations are working on innovative programs to improve health and wellness. Presbyterian Villages of Michigan (PVM) is doing just that. In urban, suburban and rural communities across the state, PVM is using evidence-based practices to help older adults eat healthier, increase physical activity, reduce their risk of falling and better manage chronic health conditions. Through its Village Victory Cup, an annual daylong competition, it is inspiring older adults to engage in healthy behaviors year-round.

The state will also continue to support health and wellness programs for older adults. In 2013, in partnership with the Legislature, we created the Michigan Health Endowment Fund to improve the health and wellness of our state, with a focus on children and older adults. With a starting fund balance of $100 million, I know the board is committed to finding innovative ways to improve the lives of older adults in Michigan.

Family Caregivers

While many older adults can live independently with little or no help, some need support and services to maintain their independence.

Michigan has more than 1.2 million caregivers who often make great sacrifices to ensure their family and friends get the help they need. These individuals should be commended for their efforts.

Employers can play an important role for family caregivers of older adults, just as they can for families with children. One Michigan employer that should be noted as a great example is Midland's MidMichigan Health. A four-time winner of AARP's Best Employers for Workers Over 50, MidMichigan Health offers older adults many workplace benefits. Employees are offered time off and short- and long-term leaves of absence to allow for caregiving. Referral services are available for child care, care for grandchildren and elder care. Employees are offered flex time, compressed work schedules, job sharing, and telecommuting. Full-time employees can also move to part-time work on a permanent or temporary basis.

Today, I challenge the business community to embrace policies that help hard-working Michiganders strike the delicate balance between responsibilities at work and at home.

Commitment to Home and Community-Based Services

Michigan has a legacy of providing quality services through a statewide network of Area Agencies on Aging and nearly 1,200 local service providers.

In my 2014 State of the State address, I called for making Michigan a "no wait state" for services for our older adults. To do this, my proposed budget includes an additional investment of nearly $20 million for Meals on Wheels, in-home services and other programs that help older adults stay in their homes.

This funding will equip our local partners with the resources they need to be more responsive to the needs of older residents. Currently, some individuals wait 180 days or more for critically important services, like Meals on Wheels and other in-home services.

A great example of what these funds can do is seen through the work of UPCAP (Upper Peninsula Commission for Area Progress). This innovative organization goes the extra mile in service delivery for Michigan's older adults. It provides services in all 15 counties, including partnering with other providers like the Luce-Chippewa-Mackinac Community Action Agency to deliver meals by snowmobile.

I know the Legislature shares my commitment to Michigan's older adults and I urge them to make Michigan a "no wait state" for home and community-based services. This investment will allow thousands of older adults to live in the setting of their choice.

Dementia

June is Alzheimer's and Brain Awareness Month. The fastest growing age group in Michigan is age 85 and older, and nearly half of those individuals will have some form of dementia. More than 180,000 Michiganders have Alzheimer's disease. For the month of June, the Pure Michigan "M" will turn purple on state websites to raise awareness and honor those struggling with this disease every day.

The Alzheimer's Association of Michigan plays an important role in helping families care for individuals who have dementia. Earlier this year it asked the Legislature to support a pilot program called the Michigan Alzheimer's Care and Support Program. This pilot will help families have a greater understanding of dementia and the supportive programs available in a home-based setting, leading to a higher quality of life for all involved.

I want to thank the Alzheimer's Association for bringing this program to Michigan's attention. This is a program that deserves our support.

In addition, a unique state program through the Michigan Historical Museum for individuals with dementia is called "Elder HeART." This program gives people with dementia a chance to interact with others and explore exhibits from each decade which can help stimulate memories. Today, I am excited to announce the expansion of Elder HeART so more individuals can participate. I encourage other museums to consider adopting this innovative model and increasing opportunities for Michiganders with dementia.

It is important to have programs available for individuals with dementia and their families. It is equally important that we come together to better understand and address dementia in our state. Recently, the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University have developed the Michigan Alzheimer's Disease Research Center which will foster and enhance innovative research in Alzheimer's and dementia across the state. I applaud their leadership on this important issue.

Putting People Above Programs

Nursing Homes

While Michigan continues to invest in home and community-based services, quality nursing homes are also an important component of our long-term care system.

Too often, nursing home residents lack the choices that many of us living independently take for granted, like when to sleep or eat. Of Michigan's more than 400 nursing homes, less than 30 percent have person-centered or culture change programs in place. This needs to change. The adoption of these principles can improve the resident's and the family's care experience.

For example, through the adoption of a nationally recognized culture change model, older adults who live at Thornapple Manor in Hastings maintain control over their daily lives according to their personal preferences.

Michigan's nursing homes are making strides to improve quality, based on national benchmarks, such as reduced hospital readmission rates and increased resident satisfaction. While we have seen improvements, there is more that we can and must do to improve the quality of care for Michigan's 40,000 plus nursing home residents.

To accelerate our state's progress, I am directing the Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs (LARA), Department of Community Health (DCH) and the Office of Services to the Aging (OSA) to develop Michigan-specific quality measures and person-centered performance incentives for nursing homes. Together, this team will work to develop a model similar to Michigan's Agriculture Environmental Assurance Program where industry can choose to proactively participate, outcomes are improved and we all win.

A Long-Term Plan for Long-Term Care

Accessing long-term care has been challenging for many Michigan residents for decades due to a lack of coordination between state departments. We recognize the need to put people first and are working to better coordinate our aging efforts at the state level.

For example, today individuals with both Medicare and Medicaid coverage have to navigate two completely independent, complicated programs. Through the new MI Health Link program, all services will be integrated into a single health care delivery model. MI Health Link will launch in four areas in 2015 including the Upper Peninsula, eight counties in southwest Michigan, Macomb County, and Wayne County. This important first step will integrate services for more than 100,000 older adults.

Despite this progress, we know there is more work to be done. The Long-Term Care Supports and Services Advisory Commission spent the past year reviewing strategies to revamp Michigan's long-term care system. Those recommendations focus on a coordinated system that puts people above programs.

I applaud the work of the commission. As a result, I am directing OSA in conjunction with the Good Government Leadership Team to lead an effort to reinvent our long-term care system in partnership with the Department of Human Services, DCH and LARA.

Access to Programs and Services

Michigan has numerous programs that need to be packaged in a way that will be easily accessible. Currently it is challenging for older adults and their families to figure out what aging services are available to them. This is largely due to the fact that there is not one place dedicated to connecting older adults to all available services.

This is not a unique challenge. Historically, Michigan's veterans did not have easy access to services and support. Michigan has more than 660,000 veterans, almost half of whom are 65 and older. Many of these individuals have not applied for benefits that were earned through their military service. With the creation of the Michigan Veterans Affairs Agency, we have begun to increase coordination among all programs for our veterans, including programs for older adults. This will help to ensure our veterans receive the benefits they have earned.

All of our older adults deserve easy access to services too. I am directing the Department of Technology Management and Budget in partnership with OSA, to build a new website for older adults and their families to get connected to Michigan's aging-related programs and services. This website will be consumer-driven and ultimately lead to a single portal for aging resources in our state by early 2015.

Safety and Security

Adult Protective Services

DHS is charged with protecting Michigan's vulnerable adults from abuse, neglect and exploitation through its Adult Protective Services (APS) program. APS maintains a 24-hour hotline to take calls of suspected abuse. From 2013-14, APS saw referrals of vulnerable adults increase approximately 31 percent.

Unfortunately, not all of our older adults have been getting the service they need through APS. Many have not received timely assistance, comprehensive follow up or easy entry into this program. This is not acceptable. We will do far better and DHS has already taken steps to ensure that we do.

Where the program fell short to meet the needs of our older adults, action has been and will continue to be taken. This includes review of cases, improved oversight and accountability and, where appropriate, disciplinary action.

Elder Abuse Prevention

Ensuring the safety and security of our older residents is critical to Michigan's reinvention. Each year thousands of older adults in Michigan fall victim to elder abuse, neglect or exploitation. The costs of these crimes, both financial and emotional, are devastating.

Significant strides have been made in the past few years, most notably, a 10-bill package of elder abuse prevention legislation, improving Michigan's ability to prevent, detect and investigate elder abuse and strengthening penalties for those convicted of 6 crimes against older adults.

Michigan adults age 65 or older make up about 15 percent of all fraud crime victims in the state. Michigan can and should partner with its financial institutions to ensure older adults are aware of certain terms and conditions of joint accounts before opening the account. Together with the help of the local banks and credit unions, we can prevent unacceptable financial exploitation of our older residents.

Also, Michigan needs additional resources to help integrate elder abuse prevention efforts into state and local service systems. Many communities have already worked hard to train law enforcement officers, health care providers and other professionals to recognize and respond to elder abuse, but we can do more. My proposed budget includes an additional $1 million to address elder abuse.

I urge the Legislature to support this investment to help prevent and reduce crimes against Michigan's older adults. These much-needed resources will fund a new integrated reporting system, additional training and the formation of the Michigan Elder Abuse Prevention Task Force.

No one organization can stop elder abuse. The state, Michigan's aging network, the justice system, law enforcement and the financial industry must work together to prevent and reduce elder abuse crimes. June 15 is Elder and Vulnerable Adult Abuse Awareness Day in Michigan. Let's use this important day as an opportunity to raise awareness and do our part to prevent and report these terrible crimes.

Age-Friendly Michigan

Age-friendly communities are part of a placemaking strategy that capitalizes on local assets and creates good public spaces. When people live, work and play in a walkable place, it results in social, economic and health benefits for themselves and their communities.

Michigan has great programs to help communities be more age-friendly. OSA's Communities for a Lifetime (CFL) program was developed by the Michigan Commission on Services to the Aging. Through this program, communities review a variety of areas including walkability and access to healthcare and develop an action plan. Twenty-three communities across Michigan have received CFL designation since the program began.

A great example of a city doing wonderful things is Auburn Hills. Auburn Hills received designation as a CFL in April of 2013 by reviewing assets and opportunities for improvement in multiple categories including walkability, safety, transportation, supportive community systems, housing, commerce and enrichment. In addition to receiving their CFL designation, the city also enrolled in AARP's Age Friendly Communities Network.

Our state departments can do more to help create age-friendly places. Today I charge the Michigan State Housing Authority (MSHDA) to partner with communities to create more age-friendly places by working with OSA and Michigan Economic Development Corporation (MEDC) to align the state's community development programs.

Access to Transportation

Part of making Michigan more age-friendly is the availability of transportation options within our communities and throughout the state. We need to ensure there are reliable, affordable transportation options for older adults.

Michigan has a well-developed network of local transit agencies and authorities. There is some level of transit in all 83 counties, including 58 with countywide service. Michigan's 78 transit agencies provided 4.4 million rides to older adults last year.

While the majority of Michiganders have access to public transit services, services are not uniform throughout the state. Like many other government services, transit is organized according to local political jurisdictions. Some transit agencies serve a single city or village. Others serve multiple cities and townships but not an entire county and only a handful operate within a multi-county area. Transit trips that require crossing from one jurisdiction to another may be very difficult, and in some cases, impossible.

A great example of an agency that coordinated to make service simpler to use is the Thunder Bay Transportation Authority (TBTA). Prior to 2006, the city of Alpena operated a dial-a-ride bus service, and the Thunder Bay Transportation Corporation provided specialized services to seniors and persons with disabilities in the surrounding county areas. In 2006 the TBTA was formed to better coordinate service and now operates seamless service throughout Alpena, Alcona and Montmorency counties.

Michiganders, including many older adults, need regional mobility and transit providers need to become more regionally focused. This is both an urban and rural issue. While Michigan took an important step with the creation of the Regional Transportation Authority (RTA), Southeast Michigan is not the only region that needs regional transit.

Today I direct the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) to partner with our metropolitan planning organizations and regional planning agencies to work on the issue of regional transit mobility. Michigan needs to identify the most significant gaps in regional mobility, especially for the aging population, and eliminate those gaps. A critical first step is to achieve better coordination between transit agencies for more efficient and effective transfers from one transit service to a service in the neighboring county.

Talent

As we continue Michigan's comeback, we must do a better job of harnessing the talents and skills of our state's older residents. Michigan's older adults have vast knowledge and experience – we should look to them to help shape Michigan's future.

Volunteerism

In 2012, more than 2.2 million Michigan residents volunteered in some capacity, nearly a quarter of whom were older adults. Older volunteers typically dedicate more time than any other age group.

Older adult volunteers help communities in a variety of ways, from helping other older adults live independently in their homes to tutoring and mentoring at-risk children.

It's been demonstrated that young people benefit from interpersonal relationships with persons from a different age group, who can provide guidance, wisdom and support. Likewise, older adults benefit from interaction with young people.

We've seen examples all across the country of how older adult volunteers can help children learn and grow. For example, New York City formed the NYC School Success Mentoring Program, which helps chronically absent students stay in school through the use of older adult volunteers. This program helped older adults connect to their community and students gained more than 11,800 days of attendance.

Today I'm charging DHS and OSA with launching a pilot program in select Pathways to Potential schools. This pilot will connect older adults with schools, opportunities to mentor and a space to interact with all generations. I'm proud to announce today that our first pilot will be in a Detroit Public School this fall.

As we expand volunteer opportunities, we can learn from strong local efforts like the Grand Rapids Encore Initiative. This program, with support from the Grand Rapids Community Foundation, has more than 30 local nonprofits that are matched with volunteers age 50 and older. Its work demonstrates that the energy and expertise of older adults is a powerful tool that can help organizations achieve their missions.

Traditionally, Encore participants have engaged with the non-profit and private sectors, but today I am proud to announce a new Encore Executives-in-Residence Program with the State of Michigan. We too have much to learn from the experience of our older adults. This new partnership will engage top-level talent who are on the verge of retirement but have a passion to contribute to the greater good.

With so many great ways to get involved, I encourage residents to visit www.DoSomethingMichigan.com to get connected with local volunteer opportunities.

Older Adult Workforce

Changing perceptions of retirement, increased workplace flexibility and the healthy aging of our older population are all contributing to people working longer. Even with these trends, job creators are finding it challenging to develop and retain talent, and older job seekers are struggling to connect their expertise with employer's needs.

Talent remains the biggest resource for employers and is a driver of economic growth in the state. We have some of the best and brightest older adults in the country. The retirement of the baby boomer population doesn't have to lead to a significant loss of talent in our job market.

Job providers with new and innovative programs to attract and retain older workers will reap many positive benefits. Workforce planning is a necessity in today's competitive, global economy.

One company that is leading the way is Bosch Enterprises, a global engineering firm with a strong presence in Michigan. Recognizing the need to retain their critical engineering talent, workers close to retirement or those simply requiring more flexible work have the option to work as consultants through a Bosch subsidiary. The program averages about 650 participants with 150 on an assignment at any given time. This is a great example of how we can retain the best talent in Michigan. I encourage other companies to adopt similar programs, especially those looking to retain talent in the skilled trades workforce.

There are a broad range of policies that can and must be implemented to attract and retain our most experienced workers. They include options like flex time, job sharing, part-time employment, job rotation, and on-call work. In addition, businesses need to take advantage of older workers' experience to mentor younger talent.

Today, I'm directing the MEDC and the Workforce Development Agency to work with our private sector partners like Kelly Services and the Michigan Manufacturers Association to educate businesses about the positive benefits of employing mature workers. To support this, I'm also directing the MEDC to enhance the www.MITalent.org website.

It's clear that for our businesses to thrive we need to not only train new talent, but retain older talent. Leveraging the skills of older adults will help us meet the demands of a 21st century economy.

Health Care Industry Workforce

The aging of Michigan's population will result in an increased demand on Michigan's health care system.

Older adults account for a disproportionate share of healthcare services including 34 percent of all prescriptions, 38 percent of all emergency medical responses and 90 percent of all nursing home use. This is why it is critically important that Michigan's health care system prepare for its aging population now.

However, this is just one piece of a larger health care workforce puzzle. We must facilitate better access to necessary care and medications for all Michiganders, while ensuring providers have adequate education and training to provide services. As part of our efforts to modernize our state's public health code, we will take steps to ensure that our laws and regulations enable this access.

Entrepreneurs

Our youngest entrepreneurs are often highlighted for their achievement. However, it is not just our youngest innovators that are growing companies and creating jobs. In fact, far from it. Older adults make up the fastest growing age segment of entrepreneurs in the country. In 2012 about 20 percent of all new businesses in the United States were started by entrepreneurs age 50 to 59.

The idea of senior entrepreneurship is not new to Wally Blume of Wayland. Blume worked in the dairy business for two decades, first for the grocery chain Kroger, and later as sales and marketing director for a large dairy in Michigan. In 2000 at age 61, Blume mortgaged his house and leveraged every asset he could, buying out his partners to start a new business. That same year, he launched Denali Flavors, a marketing and licensing company that creates new ice cream and dessert concepts, like "Moose Tracks," for independent regional dairies nationwide. Now in his 70s, Blume's company is growing rapidly, with annual sales reaching $100 million.

Today, many older adults are seeking an encore career or considering entrepreneurship. There are a lot of resources available, but the hard part is navigating the system and knowing where to start. It's time to put all of these resources in one place and market and streamline access to these programs so older adults who are interested in being an entrepreneur can get the information they need.

To accomplish this, I'm directing the MEDC to better coordinate entrepreneurial resources and increase access for older adults. MEDC will be responsible for working more closely with the federal partners and programs from the Small Business Administration, including the Senior Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) and the Small Business and Development Centers (SBDC), as well as coordinating efforts with our state and local public and private sector partners.

Reinventing Retirement

Older adults have helped to build the Michigan we know and love today. As the state plans for the future it must make responsible decisions to ensure future generations have the same opportunities as those who came before them.

The way many Michiganders view retirement has changed and will continue to do so in the future. Today's retirees live longer, are more active, are more connected to their community, and continue to be an important contributor to society.

It's important for all residents to understand why we made changes to Michigan's retirement income exemption. Some want Michigan seniors to believe that the reforms we made to that exemption were done to harm them and will cause significant hardship. That is simply not the case.

Since the 1960's, inequities in the tax system led to people paying different effective tax rates even if they had the same income. A fair solution was to make reforms to the system. The reforms we implemented protect current seniors, who experience no change to their retirement income exemption. The reforms also lowered everyone's tax rate, and they will gradually transform the existing exemption, which only benefits some seniors, into a senior exemption that benefits all seniors.

Reforming the retirement income exemption and transforming it into a broad based exemption that benefits all seniors created a more simple, fair and efficient tax system and it was the right thing to do. Even after the changes, Michigan's senior exemption is the 8th most generous in the nation.

I'm proud of Michigan's seniors and the commitment they have to Michigan's comeback.

Retirement Planning

Everyone wants to be financially secure in retirement. Planning is the key and there are many decisions Michiganders need to make as they plan for their later years.

Choosing when to retire is an important first step. Decisions made sooner rather than later ensure a greater chance of financial security. For those who still haven't had these conversations with family or financial professionals, it's never too late to plan for the future. Every Michigander should have access to the best tools available to do so.

I've directed the Department of Insurance and Financial Services (DIFS) to create comprehensive financial planning tools and to coordinate with OSA, state financial experts and community leaders to develop a public awareness campaign. It will provide older adults and Michigan families a place to go to get information, better tools and guidance to navigate financial challenges that can derail even the best plans.

Lifelong Learning

There are numerous lifelong learning opportunities all across the state for older adults. Many colleges and universities have senior-specific programs and many of these are even free or low-cost. When older adults commit to lifelong learning it benefits them, their community and the state.

One of the leaders in enrollment for adults age 65 and older is Kellogg Community College in Battle Creek. Both the college and the community should be commended for demonstrating a commitment to lifelong learning.

In addition to traditional education opportunities, we know that today's learning need not be limited by distance or the four walls of a classroom. Numerous online learning opportunities offer flexible and affordable options and should be considered.

I encourage Michigan's older adults to reach out to their local educational institution and see what it has to offer.

Travel and Recreation

Travel and recreation play an important role in the lives of older adults. Michigan is home to an abundance of natural beauty just waiting to be enjoyed. The state has the world's longest freshwater coastline, hundreds of public beaches and hundreds of miles of hiking trails. In addition, Michigan has world-class museums, art galleries, festivals, and events. This is why we welcome between 75 and 85 million leisure travelers each and every year.

Michigan's older adults are active participants in Michigan's natural and cultural resources. They provide tremendous volunteer support to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and other organizations that engage in resource management across the state.

In 2013, more than 200,000 Michigan older adults age 65 and older purchased at least one hunting or fishing license and when surveyed, 75 percent reported that they engaged in at least one outdoor recreation activity in the previous year.

Older adult volunteers play a key role in the state's work with natural resources. The "On-the-Ground" partnership with the Michigan United Conservation Clubs is a good example of this. Volunteers spend an afternoon assisting in wildlife habitat creation on state game areas. Approximately 25 percent of volunteers are older adults.

Older adults are also critical to helping young people get engaged in the outdoors and are among the best recruiters we have to ensure future generations continue Michigan's strong heritage of hunting and fishing. For example, more than 550 of the state's 3,200 Hunter Education instructors are age 65 and older. Notably, 42 of them have been volunteers for 40 or more years.

From camping to lighthouse tours, I encourage everyone, especially our older adults to get outside, go new places and check out what's new in Pure Michigan.

Conclusion

To ensure Michigan is a great place to age well, the state, the private sector, our communities and each Michigander will need to do his or her part.

The state can do its part by supporting those who are most vulnerable and by providing quality services to those who need a helping hand. In addition, the state must partner with the private sector to increase awareness of financial planning resources and opportunities for encore careers.

Michiganders can enrich their own lives by committing to a healthy lifestyle, remaining active and engaged, taking steps to achieve financial security, and maintain independence.

Michigan's population is aging rapidly. We will miss great opportunities if we don't support, value and make use of the experience, knowledge and extraordinary talents of our older residents.

Let's all make a commitment today to plan for the future and continue to make Michigan a place where our residents can live well and age well.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Meekhof's statement is as follows:

It is my honor to present to this body the Fitzgerald Award winners. It is my pleasure to recognize some young people who have earned this special honor. The Frank Fitzgerald Public Service Award recognizes talented individuals who have shown extraordinary dedication and a willingness to help others. This award is named after the late Representative Frank Fitzgerald, who was a lawmaker in the 1980s and 1990s. Frank spent 12 years in the Michigan House and was twice elected Speaker pro tempore. His father, John Fitzgerald, served here in the Michigan Senate, and his grandfather served as Michigan's Governor. In addition to their public service, the winners are honored for their excellence as scholars and volunteers.

Our first recipient is Richard Peake. He graduated from Central Michigan University just a few weeks ago and will return to Central this fall to pursue a master's degree in information systems. He also worked in the office of CMU President George Ross. Rick has interned in the Michigan Senate and with Michigan Family Forum. He has attended the Student Statesmanship Institute and won the John Quincy Adams Award, the institute's highest honor. Please join me in congratulating Rick Peake. Joining us today in the east Gallery are Rick's parents, Mike and Kristin Peake, and other members of the Peake family from Lake Orion.

Our second recipient is Keegan Nixon. Keegan is a very dedicated young man. He has volunteered his time in both the Senate and the House. In the Senate, he was an intern for Senator Darwin Booher, working at the front desk, handling constituent cases, and completing other office duties. Keegan then went to the House Republican Policy Office, where he researched issues and analyzed legislation. Earlier this year, Keegan was a finalist in the Daniel Rosenthal Legislative Intern Award competition. Keegan has also attended the Student Statesmanship Institute on several occasions. Joining us today in the east Gallery are Keegan's parents, Brian and Michelle Nixon from Howell.

On behalf of the Michigan Senate, we would like to thank these individuals for their hard work and recognize them on winning the 2014 Fitzgerald Public Service Award. Members of the Senate, please join me in congratulating Rick and Keegan.
