A SUMMARY OF HOUSE BILL 5704 AS INTRODUCED 5-3-90

Currently, the Worker's Disability Compensation Act requires that an employer furnish reasonable medical treatment to an employee who has received a work-related personal injury. The bill would amend the act to require an employer or carrier to pay a pharmacy bill within 60 days after receipt. Under the bill, a pharmacy that received notice from the employer or carrier that a claim had been disputed could continue to dispense prescriptions to the claimant at his or her risk.
