Rep. Richard LeBlanc, from the 18th District, offered the following invocation:

“Dear Heavenly Father, as we gather in this chamber today, we thank You for the opportunity and privilege to serve You and the people of Michigan. Lord, we pray that You grant us the willingness to reconcile when necessary, and the wisdom to make decisions that are in the best interest of those we represent.

Dear God, as we assemble together to do Your work, we also pray for continued growth of freedom and democracy, remembering our troops and our veterans. We also ask that You watch over our friend Representative Aldo Vagnozzi as he recovers, and our friend Representative Barb Byrum and her husband Brad as they celebrate the birth today of their son, Blake Bradley Delaney.

Lord, we thank You for all that You provide, every day.

In Your holy name, we pray. Amen.”

House Resolution No. 237.

A resolution to memorialize the President and the Congress of the United States to promote and fund induced pluripotent stem cell research and maintain funding prohibitions on research that destroys human embryos.

Whereas, Stem cells have the potential to treat and cure many debilitating and heretofore incurable diseases. These prolific, adaptable, and enduring cells might someday be able to liberate paralyzed people from wheel chairs and free diabetics from insulin pumps and finger pricks. Stem cells are exciting tools that scientists can use to study the causes and treatments of many complex diseases and injuries; and

Whereas, There are two basic types of stem cells: embryonic and adult. Embryonic stem cells are unique because they are pluripotent and can turn into any type of human cell in the body. However, there are serious moral and ethical questions associated with the use of embryonic stem cells, since harvesting them requires the destruction of live human embryos. Alternatively, using adult stem cells is not morally questionable, since their harvest does not harm an embryo; and

Whereas, Groundbreaking new research is turning the stem cell research field on its head. Stem cell pioneer James Thompson, one of the first to harvest human embryonic stem cells, is the leader of one of two independent research teams that have found a way to create pluripotent adult stem cells. Thompson and a research group from Japan were able to induce pluripotency in skin cells simply by adding four new genes; and

Whereas, Induced pluripotent stem cell research can dramatically reshape the stem cell debate. Induced pluripotent adult stem cells could offer the same disease-treating potential as embryonic stem cells, but without sacrificing embryos. Using induced pluripotent adult stem cells scientists may be able to create patient specific treatments for diabetes, Parkinson's disease, or spinal cord injury. Never before have scientists and ethicists been more in agreement about the promise and morality of a stem cell discovery. Induced pluripotent stem cell research has the potential to treat devastating diseases and injuries and unite all sides of the stem cell debate. Clearly, we must do everything we can to facilitate and advance this important potentially lifesaving research; now, therefore, be it

House Resolution No. 238.

A resolution declaring Friday, December 7, 2007, as Pearl Harbor Remembrance Day in the state of Michigan.

Whereas, On the morning of December 7, 1941, America was attacked without warning at Pearl Harbor by the air and naval forces of Imperial Japan. More than 2,400 people perished and another 1,100 were wounded, triggering our nation’s entry into World War II; and

Whereas, On December 7, 2007, we honor those who lost their lives 66 years ago and all veterans who have fought to preserve our freedom and democracy; and

Whereas, Today, we also recognize the citizens of Michigan who answered their country’s call to the battlefield, the factory, and the farm. We remember Pearl Harbor through their deeds, their devotion to duty, and their willingness to fight for freedom; and

Whereas, The attack at Pearl Harbor fired the American spirit with a determination that freedom would not fall. The tragedy of December 7, 1941, remains upon the memories of the citizens of the state of Michigan, as well as, our great nation. May this recollection serve not just as a symbol of American valor, but also as the resolve of all Americans in preserving freedom; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That the members of this legislative body declare Thursday, December 7, 2007, as Pearl Harbor Remembrance Day in the state of Michigan. We urge the people of Michigan to acknowledge the importance of recognizing this day.

Pending the reference of the resolution to a committee,

Rep. Tobocman moved that Rule 71 be suspended and the resolution be considered at this time.
