Senator Mallory McMorrow of the 13th District offered the following invocation:

May we come together this morning humbled by—and in celebration of—the vibrancy and diversity of our community. May we find ourselves driven not by dismissiveness and divisiveness towards one another, but by a consistent sense of curiosity and desire to learn. And in that learning, may we recognize that underneath our differences in skin color, language, religion, dress, traditions, or expression, that we share so much more that binds us together—pride, passion, the drive to transform our place from mere collections of homes and businesses into communities, the desire to treat others well, to create opportunity, and to leave our place in the world better than we found it in whatever capacity we can. May we recognize and take solace in knowing that we are an integral part of our community, of our world, and of our universe, but recognize and be humbled by the vastness of it all.

May we be inspired by the cool morning air, the birdsong that sings in the quiet early hours, and the morning light that greets us with each new day—except for today, when it’s cloudy. May we be grateful for each new day that we have—that we are here, that we are whole—and recognize what a privilege it is to be alive. May we be humbled by and inspired by the knowledge that each of us are just one small part of something much greater. But may we take comfort in knowing—driven by consistency, good will, empathy, understanding, and the desire to put out that which we hope to receive—that each action we take, no matter how small, has the power to reverberate throughout our community and grow. And that the power of our collective action will create a lasting impact in our families, in our communities, throughout our state, throughout our country, and throughout the world.

To all that we hold as our higher power and inspiration. Amen.

The Assistant President pro tempore, Senator Theis, led the members of the Senate in recital of the Pledge of Allegiance.

Resolutions

Senator Shirkey offered the following concurrent resolution:

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 16.

A concurrent resolution of tribute offered as a memorial for William Grawn Milliken, former governor and member of the Senate.

Whereas, The members of the Michigan Legislature were saddened to learn of the passing of William G. Milliken. One of the great leaders in Michigan history, he piloted our state through some of its most difficult years with civility, integrity, and an unerring belief in the ability of people to come together to solve Michigan’s most pressing problems; and

Whereas, A native of Traverse City, William Milliken was born into a family of political and business leaders. The importance of service, generosity, and hard work were instilled in his youth, as well as a love of the outdoors, and would shape his future endeavors. Upon graduation from Traverse City High School in 1940, he attended Yale University, until he chose to bravely serve his country in the U.S. Army Air Corps in World War II. Over his two years of active service, he flew numerous dangerous missions as a waist-gunner on B-24 bombers and was awarded a number of medals, including a Purple Heart and an Air Medal. In 1945, he returned stateside to marry the love of his life, Helen, and complete his bachelor's degree. He returned to Traverse City and spent the subsequent years running the family business, J.W. Milliken, Inc., serving on the Michigan Waterways Commission, and starting his family, among other endeavors. In 1960, he followed in the footsteps of his father and grandfather and was elected to serve in the Senate for the first time; and

Whereas, As a member of the Senate, William Milliken began to establish his place as a leading moderate voice in Michigan politics. He stood up for civil rights and called for new programs to promote tourism and agriculture, expand community colleges, provide scholarships for high school graduates, address mental illness, and increase local revenue. He worked to preserve scenic beauty on highways by limiting billboards and sponsored legislation to support education through parochial schools. He served as chair of the Education Committee and the Veterans' Affairs Committee, and, in his second term, was selected as majority floor leader. He left the Senate upon his election as Governor George Romney's lieutenant governor in 1964, an office he would hold for the next five years; and

Whereas, William Milliken rose to the position of governor in 1969 following Governor Romney's appointment as United States Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Over the next 14 years, Governor Milliken would leave his mark on our state, establishing a nationally recognized standard for effective leadership. At a time of great unrest and deep economic crises in Michigan and our nation, his basic decency, kindness, and charm allowed him to build bipartisan alliances and solutions to Michigan's problems. Mild-mannered and thoughtful, he made difficult decisions and pursued policies on the environment, economy, civil rights, education, urban revitalization, and many other issues that he believed would benefit the state of Michigan and all of its citizens in the long run. He left office as Michigan's longest-serving governor; and

Whereas, William Milliken remained an active and respected figure and independent voice in the political landscape for decades after he left office. He served on corporate and nonprofit boards and commissions and remained a strong advocate for the Great Lakes, criminal justice reform, and other issues; and

Whereas, William Milliken's life and legacy of service to our state and its people will not soon be forgotten. An icon of Michigan politics and a true statesman, he will be remembered as a steadfast champion for the common good and the ability of government to serve that good. May he rest in peace; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That we offer this expression of our highest tribute to honor the memory of William Grawn Milliken, a member of the Senate from 1961 to 1964, lieutenant governor and president of the Senate from 1965 to 1969, and governor from 1969 to 1982; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Milliken family as evidence of our lasting esteem for his memory.

Pending the order that, under rule 3.204, the concurrent resolution be referred to the Committee on Government Operations,

Statements

Senator Barrett asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

The motion prevailed.

Senator Barrett’s statement is as follows:

I just wanted to wish you a happy feast day of St. Barbara today.

St. Barbara is the patron saint of the field artillery, which is the king of battle. I have some experience serving in the field artillery—for about ten years throughout my career in the military—and there’s this long tradition of celebrating the feast day of St. Barbara. The artillery has adopted this patron saint because legend has it that St. Barbara was tortured and killed as a martyr when she converted to Christianity—was killed by her father, in fact, and then he was struck down by lightning after she was killed. St. Barbara took on the effect of being the patron saint of spontaneous death, lightning, gunpowder, and other perilous situations.

In the old days of the field artillery, they used to have to light the fuse on the cannon in order to activate the device to fire the cannon. There was a really high risk that the whole thing would just blow up in your face. The original artillerymen who really crafted this profession would say a prayer to St. Barbara and she became the patron saint of the field artillery.

There’s a whole military Order of Saint Barbara to recognize this, and today is her feast day. I’m wearing red today to commemorate that—red is the official color of the field artillery, so those of you wearing red are also celebrating St. Barbara’s feast day today. I appreciate that, and I appreciate the ability to recognize that.

Senator Stamas asked and was granted unanimous consent to make a statement and moved that the statement be printed in the Journal.

Senator Stamas' statement is as follows:

Before you are budget bills that will restore many of the line items vetoed and transferred by the Governor in October. This will restore funding to treat Alzheimer's, autism, and opioid addiction; funding for local police departments, hospitals, and local governments; funding for scholarships promised to college students; funding for charter and rural schools to teach our children; and funding for foster care programs and programs to investigate child abuse. While this does not restore all of the Governor's vetoes and transfers, it is a good first step in the right direction. It is my hope this is the last time any of these programs are caught in the political crossfire. I ask for each of the members' support in passing these bills.
